

FOCAL POINTS FOR PROTESTANT EDUCATION IN EUROPE

The Community of Protestant Churches in Europe (CPCE) seeks to deepen the fellowship between the churches. What does this mean in terms of the Protestant churches' commitment to education?

From October 26 to 28, 2015, education managers from the Protestant churches in Europe and educational experts are invited to come together at Tutzing Academy to share ideas and so form networks. This way they may express common interests and develop perspectives for educational activities in Europe.

The consultation is geared towards Protestant educational activities in congregations, schools and society. The aim is to ascertain the common educational responsibility in Europe and define the active role of the churches among the actors in European Education.

The consultation will be in both English and German. Simultaneous interpretation will be provided.
